

GROUP WORK PRIVACY AGREEMENT

I take your confidentiality very seriously. Thus, what you share in group calls will not be discussed with others. This privacy is also a shared responsibility of all group members.

To respect the privacy of all members, it is crucial that you respect each other's privacy as much as you would want your privacy respected. As such, please refrain from releasing any information, in writing or orally, regarding any group member to any person(s) or agencies.

Likewise, please respect the privacy of your fellow group members. Some group members prefer to maintain their privacy outside of group, while others welcome the contact. The best rule is to ask the group member what they prefer. Please respect confidentiality boundaries.

Each member is welcome to discuss their work in group as it applies to their healing process. However, networking for business or soliciting other group members for business ventures, sales, etc. is not a part of this process. Please refrain from doing this within group.

Group work is about growth, insight, challenging the self, and healing. Feedback to group members should be framed with truth, respect and affirmations.

By my signature below, I indicate that I have read carefully and understand this agreement and that I agree to its terms and conditions.

I recognize that any information I hear within the group revealed to me by other clients is strictly confidential. I agree not to disclose the name of or any information related to any member of the group to anyone outside the group. Such a violation of this trust will result in immediate termination from the group.
